Forecast for Friday 23 Jul 2021

Weather: Any low cloud, mainly across the Trossachs, tending to burn away quite quickly in the morning leaving another sunny and warm day. There is the chance of isolated heavy thundery showers in the afternoon. Possibly some low cloud spreading west across the Trossachs once again in the evening.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 800m: 90%, perhaps some patchy low cloud in the morning and evening especially for eastern ranges.

Visibility: Generally good or very good but around dawn there may be patchy or scattered low cloud from 600ft for more eastern ranges like the Trossachs and around Loch Lomond. This will clear readily during the morning but may reform during the evening. Otherwise it may be hazy at times.
